DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 10/26/2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Momtaz et al. (US 7088797)

With respect to claim 1, Figures 9 and 10 of Momtaz et al. disclose a synchronous memory device for synchronization of an external input clock (REFCLK) with an internal input clock (VNCLK) comprising: a Phase locked loop having a clock divider (901) comprising a plurality of clock signal dividers (911 and 912) connected in series, a power down controller (202) for determining a power down condition based at least on a predetermined state of a clock enable signal (add or drop) inputted to the loop, wherein the clock divider outputs a first clock signal (between 911 and 912) being one of the output signals of the clock signal dividers excluding the last clock signal divider (912) of the series when the synchronous memory device is in the power down condition (Note: the power down condition is determined by the user to output a "power down signal" determined by the user when a certain sequence occurs") , wherein the clock divider (901) outputs a second clock signal (at the output of 912) being an output signal of the last clock signal divider of the series when the synchronous memory device is in a non-power down condition (Note: the power down condition is determined by the user to output a "power down signal" determined by the user when a certain sequence occurs"), and wherein a frequency of the first clock signal is lower than that of the second clock signal but fails to disclose the Phase locked loop being a (DLL). It is well known in the art to include a deskew PLL on the receive side so that the clock at each data flip-flop is phased-matched to the received clock (i.e. use a DLL in the place of an PLL). It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to include a deskew PLL on the receive side so that the clock at each data flip-flop is phase matched to the received clock for the well known purpose of eliminating delay limits in the frequency at which data can be sent.

With respect to claim 15, the circuit above produces the synchronous memory device of claim 14, wherein the frequency of the second clock signal is $2M$ when the frequency of the first clock signal is M . (Note this claim is met because the dividing ratio can be selected by the user so that the first clock signal frequency is M and the second clock signal frequency is $2M$ (see chart in figure 10))
